The parade given at five thirty in the afternoon through the business section of the city proved most entertaining and delighted the youngsters and many grownups. It will be a feature of the day's gro-gram during the week. The shows all appear to be clean exhibits, above the average of those shown with cam-ival companies and the large crowds which throughd the tents showed' their appreciation of the sights ex-hibited. The company will remain-here a week.

SLIGHT OBJECTION IS TAKEN TO STAND ON INCOME TAX LAW

Some of Republicans at Yesterday's Conference Favored Unconditional Repeal of "Ob-noxious Measure."

Some sentiment against the present neome tax law stronger than that ex-had been accepted by the convention and after the informal vote for the choice of the conference for candidate for the state senate had been declared formal, that the report of the resolutions committee be reconsidered.

In making his motion Mr. Salmon explained that he emphatically was of the opinion that the resolutions as were entirely too polite and formal, especially in regard to the income tax law. He was in favor of using much stronger language in reference to the act and would have the conference demand the unconditional repeal of the measure instead of merely stating that it did not approve of it. He had no criticism to make on the members of the committe but

Mr. Salmon's motion for a recon sideration on these matters precipitated some discussion. Several of the members declared that it was dis-courteous to the candidate named to vote a change in the resolutions after he had been named as the confer-ence's choice and M. O. Mouat moved the motion to reconsider be laid on the table. This was applied by the table. This was carried but a division of the house was called. Streets With Long Names.

"Using the letters of the alphabet and numbers to designate streets is called here," says a Berlin letter, "the 'American style,' and the introduction of the system has many advocates, but apparently these have no voice in the matter; because the popular idol-royal, heroic, religious, scientific or commercial-still has the first call. Many of the names are exasperatingly long, and when we think that the most impossible one has been discovered we always find another just a little bit worse. Recently we saw two letters addressed to Vienna-one to a person in Klosterneuburgstrasse, and the other to a correspondent in Mariabilfergasse. How much time would be saved if these streets were numbered or lettered!"

is. The question of finances, however may prevent our taking any positive step the coming season. We have not os yet been able to ascertain the

FOR STATE SENATOR.

At the conference of republicans from the Twenty-second senatorial district, held Monday at the Court House, the republicans present named L. C. Whittet, of Edgerton, as their choice for candidate for the office of state senator. Mr. Whittet will enstate senator. Mr. Whittet will enthings hum for his democratic allies ter the contest backed by the men in the state. to nominate and elect him. L. C. Whittet is no stranger to the district. He has served his political apprenticeship as member of the assembly from the first assembly district and his record as a member of the lower house of the state law making body, is a most thriable one. Fair and without undue prejudice he acted as members of the most important legislative committees in a manner that brought him praise from even his political enemies. He is a man who will make a most excellent representative of the senatorial district and will find that he has many friends throughout Rock and Walworth counties who will be glad for an opportunity to cast their ballot

Both of these men are ardant workers in the cause of progressive republicanism, of the ultra progressive type. They will make a strenuous campaign for the office they seek and the voters of the counties of the district will doubtless be given an opportunity to judge as to the mer its of the three men by personal contact, before the campaign is much

And now Mutsuhito lies near death and Japan must realize that he has been nothing more than a name, a shadow monarch, a sham master of his empire. He has been ill for a long time, desperately broken in health and strength, and not one of his subjects in every thousand knew anything about it.

Ethically woman is a secr. Most of all, clear and wide are the eyes of a wife in a matter involving the good name of her family. When in doubt consult your wife. A wife's judgment is usually good in business matters. With her keen insight into human nature she often will be able to tell you whether or not you may trust a man.

Give your honor into her keeping. There was Victoria Colonna, one of the strong women of history. Her bushand was a loyal friend of the great Charles V. At one time Colonna was offered the crown of Naples if be would join the league against Charles. Though strongly tempted, he asked his wife's advice. She bade him reject the offer.

Not every woman would refuse to be gueen.

But most wives would!

Because the project meant base betrayal and treachery, and the heart of true woman is turned against such baseness

Even from a prudential point of view the advice of Colonna's wife was good. To be promised a thing is not always to get it.

Make your wife your partner.

She is your best friend, the most is vitally concerned in your outcome. She is your most competent and honest counselor. If she is a normal woman she will keep your feet out of the mire of wrongdoing.

Take no important step without a conference with her. She will be glad and proud to have your confidence and may be able to suggest ways and means of accomplishment.

MUTSUHITO MARKED NEW ERA FOR JAPAN

Mutsuhite

The reign of Mutsuhito, Emperor of Japan, marked a new era for that little kingdom. For more than three hundred years his predecessors had been given over to pleasure and indolence. But on ascending the throne in 1852 Matsuhito marked out for himself a new course. His reign opened with a remarkable series of events. Most important of all was the opening of Japanese ports to American commerce in 1854. Soon bright young men were sent to Europe and America to study in the schools and colleges of those countries. Free schools, patt.rned after those of America, were established. In 1896 the Emperor promulgated a new constitution. Since then the rise of the Flowery Kingdom has been very rapid and today it is one of the great powers. The reign of Mutsuhito, Emperor great powers.

New Ideal Deering Corn Binder

With the Deering Ideal Corn Binder the corn can be bound, like a sheaf of wheat, while it is in a horizontal position. This machine is built on the principle which has made the grain binder so successful. Inasmuch as the corn is not elevated in a vertical position, the power which would be required for this purpose on similar machines is reserved on the Ideal for cutting and binding. This binder operates in a highly successful manner, in all conditions of corn. The construction and position of the gatherer boards are such that it is possible to get down under the corn and bring it up to the position for cutting.

DISTRIBUTION OF POWER

There is an absence of Chain belting on the Ideal Corn Binder, the power being distributed from the main enclosed gears on the main wheel directly to the knife, the gatherer chains, and binding mechanism. The main gear is encased in a solid cast frame which is attached to the main wheel. Provision has been made for numerous oil cups. On the vertical shafts these are provided with spring covers which prevent the bearings being cut by mud, dust, sand, or other foreign materials.

CUTTING AND BINDING

The gatherer board gets down under the corn and brings it up to the proper position for cutting. The knife runs free and easy, being steadied and governed by a fly wheel which runs on roller bearings.

The cutter bar is protected from wear by steel wearing plates.

The stalks are always placed uniformly on the deck, the steel rods guiding them to the proper position for binding. The band can always be properly placed owing to the wide range of adjustment of the binding attachment. The actual range is 21 inches, 8 inches being obtained by the shifting device, and 13 inches by the aid of the butt adjuster. A large capacity, substantial build, strong bracing, and correct location are some of the characteristics of the bundle carrier. It is trapped by a small foot lever and places the bundles on one side of the binder, out of the way of the horses and parallel to the row. If you are in the market for a Corn Binder this year, come in and see the Deering New Ideal and you will take one home with you. We will make the price attractive.

FRANK M. KENNEDY RESIGNS AS SEALER

Tenders Resignation To City Council
Which Accepted It This Afternoon, Successor Not Named.

Frank M. Kennedy, City Sealer of Weights and Measures, appointed to the position by Ex-Mayor John C. Nichols, filed his resignation with the the City Council this afternoon to take effect at once and the resigna-tion was accepted. Mr. Kennedy gives as a reason for his resignation the insufficiency of the salary which was fixed at $200.

He thought the work demanded to much time to make it worth his while to continue in it. No successor has yet been named for Mr. Kennedy and it is probable that another civil service examination will have to be held before this can be done. Mr .Kennedy was the only one to pass the last exmination held for City Sealer.

FINDS CITY FINANCES IN GOOD CONDITION

H. S. Haggart Makes Report to City Council on Auditing of Books
Of City Treasurer.

A marked improvement in the condition of the city finances over last year is shown in the report of H. S. Haggart to the Common Council on the auditing of the books of the city treasurer for the year ending June 30 He found all monies properly accountea for and all entries correctly made with the exception of one clerical error of four cents. As compared with the balances in the different funds on July 1, 1911, the general fund shows an increase of about $24,000. and the fire and water fund of about $16,006. This increase is partly due to the crediting to these funds of the 1911 and 1912 saloon licenses in the same fiscal year. The ward funds are about $2500 ahead of the same period last year. The City Treasurer had on hand July 1, 1912, in regular working funds an available cash balance of $92,315 against $54,235 on the same date in 1911. This amount does not include monies set aside to return bonds due in 1912, the Fourth Avenue bridge fund of $15,166 or balances in several street improvement funds. The present indebtedness of the city mounts to $160,500.

J. J. Smith, Jeweler at 313 W. Milw. St., is Exhibiting the Tools Used in the Actual Making of Watches. On account o In the recent published statement, regarding the designing and manufacture of a watch that surpasses anything known in the cheap watch industry, and the fact that it was made with the equipment he has in his shop in this city, J. J. Smith has filled his display windows with the actual tools he used in the operation.

Many of these also are the work of

Mr. Smith himself, he having designed vice to which they are each adapted.
Watch making tools, it might be well to explain, are made for the production of one kind of watch and the jeweler who wishes to handle all makes and to give satisfaction in his repair work, must be equipped with those of special designs.

Others also are for the correction of errors made in the manufacture of Miss Jessie Porter went to White-water today to visit friends.

The Misses Elsle Fathers and Ana Smith left today for an outing at Kilbourn and the Dells. that they can give satisfaction. These tools are used in the correction of such errors, and allow the jeweler, using them, to absolutely guarantee a perfect timepiece.

Among the tools shown are Grinders for making Master Cutters to produce the required angle and curve between the leaves of a pinion and the teeth of the wheel to transmit the highest percentage of power.

A Universal Head with special attachment for deepening work to get the required depth between the wheel and pinion which must be perfect to the thousandth part of a centimeter. Grinders for making special tapered Arbors, Callipers, Jowel Setters, and scores of other infinitesimal and yet intricate bits of machinery make the window worthy of careful study.

Boosts and Knocks.

How comes it that the evil which men say spreads so wildly and lasts so long, whilst our good, kind words don't seem somehow to take root and bear blossom? Is it that in the stony hearts of mankind these pretty flowers can't find a place to grow? Cer tain it is that scandal is good, brisk talk, whereas praise of one's neighbor is by no means lively hearing .-W. M. Thackeray.

CONTROL OF APPETITE.

"When you get control of diet, you simply eat, enjoy it and forget it. After control has been gotten of the food appetite, other things come easy.' This experience of a reader agrees with the statement that I have quoted from Dickens, in Nicholas Nickleby, "Control your appetites, boys, and then you will learn to control all your other passions." Eating is the fundamental habit and abandon in that tends to abandon in all other directions. This is seen in the history of the decline of nations. There is greater satisfaction in the legitimate satisfaction of a normal, cultivated appetite than in catering to an abnormal appetite, we must not entirely ignore the limitations set by heredity and our own habits of improvement must be years,

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co.. Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It cats directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Ten Hints on Matrimonv

F marriage is a failure, it certainly isn't for lack of advice. Every one seems anxious to set up all the beacon lights within his power to mark a safe course. Mrs. John Hays Hammond, one of the prominent women of our country, has come forward now with "Ten Hints on Matrimony." She is a woman of wide experience and what she tays should be worth listening to.

"Don't marry a man for money," is her first suggestion. "Don't be afraid to marry a man because he has been in love before,"

"Don't let any other woman influence your judgment in choice. Choose for yourself."

'Don't accept any gifts, except candy, books or flowers, and a man's heart-whole affection, until the wedding or near it."

"Don't marry a man for ancestry alone. Stock runs out."

"Don't marry a foreigner. It requires a sacrifice of individuality." "Don't marry because of propinquity."

"Don't marry without getting the advice of a physician."

"Don't marry unless the man is honest and competent in the affairs of

"Don't abandon all common sense in your choice." These are all eminently practical and sensible suggestions, and if followed, divorce records would be considerably lowered. But who will follow them?

Can you convince a woman who is marrying for money that she is waiking into a wretchedness of which she cannot conceive? Nothing but the experience will prove it to her. Will the girl who thinks she is wildly in love with the bookkeeper or the floor walker, listen to you when you tell her, that if she would get another position and not see the object of her affection for a year, his coming and going would arouse no more feeling in her than the ice man's? Is there a woman in a hundred who would insist upon a doctor's certificate of health from the man she is to marry? Yet physicians say seventy-five per cent, of the men of this country are not fit to marry, many doctors place it at eighty-seven per cent. How is the girl to know that the man she is marrying is one of that small twenty-five per cent. or even smaller thirteen per cent? Yet, how terribly a woman suffers because of What girl desperately in love does not cherish some vague, happy belief that the magical marriage service will change the man she is going marry from an incompetent business person into a captain of industry?

thinks it will be different after he is married. Marriage is without doubt a beautiful thing, but an unhappy married life or divorce isn't. If girls would actually put into practice some of these suggestions of Mrs. Hammond's, though there might be fewer marriages, there would be certainly less unhappy or broken ones

It was not. When it was put to them, they voted it down.

HEN young and old come forth to play On a sunshine holiday! -Milton.

Did it ever occur to you that there is too much segregation of ages in present-day society? It seems to me that there is. It seems to me that the occasions when they could have a better time if they joined forces once The mother of one of the college girls who gradu ated last year gave her daughter a series of parties last fall. And the list of guests comprised not only the girls of her daughter's age, but also many of these girls

People wondered somewhat at this and the hostess it: "That is the way things should be. There are many fine personalities among the women of my age that it will do my daughter good to meet, and I want her to meet them. I think each generation flocks by itself too much. It makes us both narrow to do that; we don't get each other's point of view. It does girls good to meet older women and it keeps older women young to meet young girls. Henceforth I am not going to have any especial age limits for my parties.

They will be made up of congenial people of every age."

What a pity it is that more mothers do not have this spirit.

Incidentally, it should be added, these parties were a notable success.

Another clipping reads as follows: That gold in sufficient quantities to bonding lands in that vicinity are loath to give any information regarding their prospects to the public. That they are bonding, and even buying the state of outright, land at more than double its value of a few short months ago, is the report that has been obtained from residents of Honcut

It is known, however, that the drill-ing operations going on for the past several weeks have disclosed the fact that a body of gravel from 30 to 45 feet in depth underlies this entire section, and owing to the immense volume of water that is in this gravel, the old-style wells that were sunk never more than barley reached this gravel, which is the reason that the presence of gold was never suspected before.

"Come in," said she.

As the door closed after them, Kitty rushed toward it. Jealousy, fury, of fended pride, all the passions in short, that dispute the heart of an outraged woman in loye, urged ber to make a revelation; but she reflected that she would be totally lost if she confessed having assisted in such a machination, and, above all, that D'Artagnan would also be lost to her forever. This last thought of love counseled her to make this last sacrifice.

D'Artagnan, on his part, had gained the summit of all his wishes. It was no longer a rival that was beloved, it was he himself that was apparently beloved. A secret voice whispered to him, at the bottom of his heart, that he was but an instrument of vengeance; that he was only caressed till he had given death; but pride, but self love, but madness silenced this voice and stifled its murmurs.

But milady, who had not the same motives for forgetfulness that D'Artagnan had, was the first to return to reality, and asked the young man if the means which were on the morrow him and De Wardes were already arranged in his mind.

D'Artagnan, whose ideas had taken quite another course, forgot himself like a fool, and answered gallantly that that was not the time to think about duels and sword thrusts. He fancied himself very cunning when advising milady to renounce, by pardoning De Wardes, the furious projects she had formed,

'Are you afraid, dear D'Artagnan?" "You cannot think me so, dear love!"

"I will mark you with a second fleur de-lis.

replied D'Artagnan, "but now, suppose this poor Count de Wardes should be less guilty than you imagine him to be?"

"At all events," said milady seriously, "he has deceived me, and, from the lost sight of him milady sank back moment he deceived me, he merited, fainting into her chamber.

"He shall die, then, since you condemn him!"

When the faint light of dawn peeped through the blinds milady warned D'Artagnan that it was time to depart not forgetting to remind him of his promise to avenge her on Count de Wardes.

"You would not, then, prefer a means," resumed D'Artagnan, "which would equally avenge you, while rendering the combat useless?" Milady looked at her lover in silence The pale light of the first rays of day

"You gave De Wardes a meeting on Thursday last in this very room, did

"What do you mean? Speak! You terrify me to death."

Wardes of last Thursday and the D'Artagnan of today are the same person!" Pale and trembling, milady repulsed D'Artagnan's attempted embrace by a violent blow on the chest as she sprang from him.

It was then broad daylight. In his eagerness to detain her, D'Artagnan had grasped her dress, but the frail cambric could not stand against two such strong wills-it was torn from her fair round shoulders, and, to his horror and astonishment. D'Artagnan recognized upon one of them, indelibly branded, the mark which is impressed by the ignominious hand of the executioner.

"Great heaven!" cried D'Artagnan, loosing his hold and remaining mute, motionless and frozen.

But milady felt herself denounced by his terror even. He had doubtless seen all. The young man now knew her secret, her terrible secret-the secret she concealed even from her maid with such care, the secret of which all the world excepting be was ignorant,

"Ah, wretch," she cried, "thou hast basely betrayed me, and, still more, thou hast my secret! Thou shalt die!" And she flew to a little inlaid casket which stood upon the toilet, opened it with a feverish and trembling hand. to bring on the rencounter between drew from it a small poniard with a golden haft and a sharp, thin blade, and then threw herself with a bound upon D'Artagnan.

Although the young man was, as we know, brave, he drew back to the other side of the room as he would have done from a serpent which was crawling toward him, and his sword coming in contact with his nervous band, he drew it almost unconsciously from the scabbard,

She then endeavored to seize the sword with her hands. But D'Artagnan kept it free from her grasp and continued to present the point, sometimes at her eyes, sometimes at her breast, while he aimed at making his retreat by the door which led to Kit-

"Quick, Kitty! Quick!" said D'Artagnan in a low voice as soon as the bolts were fast. "Let me get out of the house, for if we leave her time to turn around she will have me killed by the servants.'

How, Without Incommoding Himself, Athes Found His Equipment,

'ARTAGNAN was so completely bewildered that, without taking any heed of what would become of Kitty, he ran at full speed across half Paris and did not stop till he came to Athos' door. He crossed the court, ran up the two flights to Athos' apartments and knocked at the door enough to break it down.

Athos met his comrade. "Are you wounded, my friend? How pale you are!" he cried. "Athos," said D'Artagnan, "prepare Athos uttered a groan and let/his head sink into his hands.

"This one is a woman of from twenty-six to twenty-eight years of age." "Fair," said Athes, "is she not, with blue and clear eyes of a strange brilliancy, with black eyelids and eye

"There is something horribly mysterious under all this, Athos. This woman is one of the cardinal's spies, I am sure of that."

"In that case take care of yourself. If the cardinal does not hold you in high admiration for the affair of Lon-don he entertains a great hatred for you. If you go out, do not go out alone. When you eat use every precaution. Mistrust, in short, everything, even your own shadow. "Fortunately," said D'Artagnan, "all this will be only necessary till after tomorrow evening, for when once with the army we shall have, I hope, only men to dread."

"In the meantime," said Athos, "I enounce my plan of seclusion, and wherever you go I will go with you. You must return to the Rue des Fossoyeurs. I will accompany you. All this will not advance your equipment, but fortunately you have the sap I phire."

"The sappliffe is yours, my dear Athos. Did you not tell me it was a family jewel?'

"I take back the ring after it has passed through the hands of that infamous creature! Never! That ring is defiled, D'Artagnan."

"Pledge it then. You can borrow at least a thousand crowns on it. With that sum you can extricate yourself from your present difficulties, and when you are full of money again you can redeem it and take it back cleansed from its ancient stains, as it will have passed through the hands of usurers." Athos smiled.

"Agreed. Let us pledge the ring, but upon one condition."

"What is that?"

"That there shall be 500 crowns for

"To which you attach more value than I do to mine; at least I have thought it seemed so."

"Yes, for in any extreme circumstance it might not only extricate us from some great embarrassment or even a great danger. It is not only a valuable diamond; it is an enchanted talisman.'
